W210

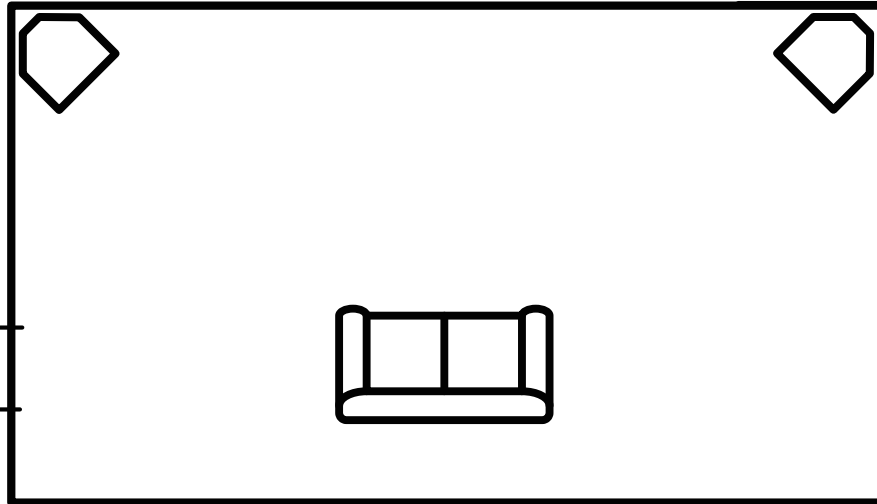

Placement

W210

The W 210 BassDirect speaker is specifically build to stand in a corner.

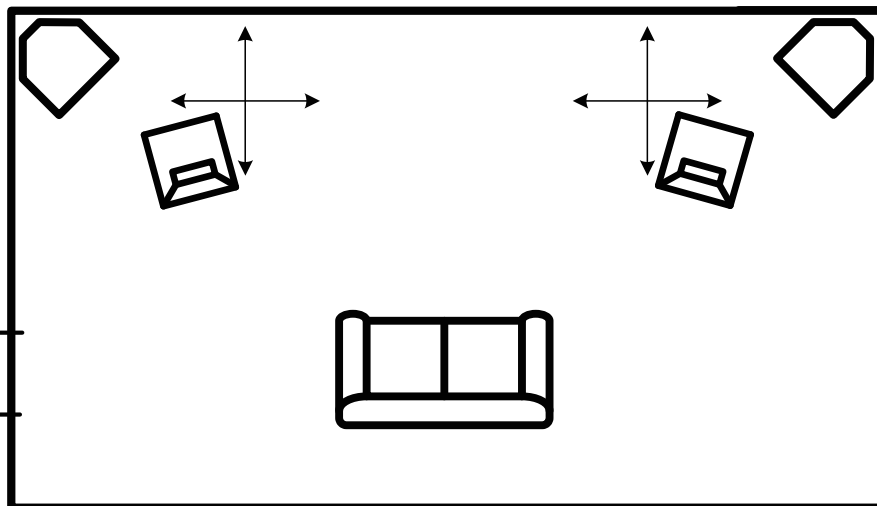

If you have a rectangular room, our experience is that you get the best sound if they are placed along the longest wall. This will give you a wider stereo image than if they are placed along the short wall.

Main Speakers

Place you main speakers the way you would place them normally. It is not nescasarry to place them close to the W210s.

If applying RoomPerfect you can even place the main speakers up against the back wall.

Connecting

When connecting the W210s, always connect "+" and "-" from the amplifier to the corresponding "+" and "-" terminals on the W210 input.

Connect your speakers the same way to avoid phase errors.

Set-up of cut-off frequency

To match most speakers bass response, we recommend a cut-off frequency at 400Hz. But depending on you speakers and room, the cut-off frequency can easily vary from 200-800Hz. Try experimenting to get the best sound.

Level

Adjust the level of the W210s to match the sound level of your main speakers.

If applying RoomPerfect you can set the volume of the W210s a few dB to loud before making the RoomPerfect calibration. RoomPerfect will then lower the bass to an appropriate level.

Cleaning

Please use a dust-free cloth to clean the speakers. It is also possible to use a slightly damp cloth for more stubborn marks.

Under no circumstances should you use any kind of cleaning agent on, or in close proximity to, these speakers.
